FROM THE ARCHIVES: BOOKER T. WASHINGTON VISITS CLAREMONT

When Booker T. Washington spoke on January 3, 1903, the Los Angeles Times hailed him as, “one of the greatest...men who have visited Pomona College.” The Pomona College Student Life reported, “[the speech] was attended by a great throng of people such as Pomona College has not witnessed for many a day.”

Booker T. Washington in
Holmes Hall, Pomona College

In his address, Washington discussed race relations, the importance of higher education, and the mission of the Tuskegee Institute, which he founded in 1881: “We, of our institute, believe in dignifying every common labor which goes to build up the world; we believe in making work, if well done, nothing less than sublime.”

LOOKING FOR FINANCIAL DATA ON COMPANIES AND INDUSTRIES?

The Claremont Colleges subscribe to databases that provide access to detailed historical financial information. They include extensive data such as income and balance sheet information and stock market data. Some series have information from as far back as 1950. One database is Standard & Poors' (S&P) Research Insight, available for use only within the Libraries. The second database includes S&P as well as CRSP (Chicago Research in Securities Prices) data, and is available via the Internet through WRDS, a specialized interface, restricted to Claremont Colleges faculty, staff & students. This database also requires a special personal password issued by a faculty member. In order to use these databases, it is helpful to have an introduction from the Business Librarian, Mary Martin. She can be reached by email at mary.martin@libraries.claremont.edu or ext. 18923.
